Woman's Auxiliary Presbytery Session To Close On Friday

Three-Day Session Ends;

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Washington Berry of Hope Elected Home
Mission Secretary

Mrs. Lottie Montgomery, president of Arkansas Synodical, presided over the Thursday evening session of the Ounchita presbytery in session at the First Presbyterian church in this city.

The altar and choir loft were decorated with patchwork quilts, coverlets and spreads, calling attention to the work being done in mountain missions and schools. The annual birthday offering of the women of the Southern Presbyterian church goes to further this phase of Christian work this year.

Rev. J. A. Allen, a missionary on furlough from the Belgian Congo in darkest Africa, gave an instructive lecture during which he showed examples of the arts and industries of the natives, told of their beliefs and practices and of their simplicity of faith which "becomes as that of a little child," when the Gospel is preached to them. "They believe in a God, but know nothing of the Christ," said Mr. Allen.

"The depression is being felt in Africa, too, not because it causes them to suffer for the temporal things of life, but because we are having to curtail our missionary activities and the receipts from the church at home does not permit us to finance our scope and influence," Mrs. Allen stated.

The service was concluded with a solo by Mrs. Ward Dabney, "How Long Must We Wait," which is popularly considered to be a composition of Dr. Motte Martin. But Rev. Allen said this is an error and it was the product of the pen of Rev. George McKee, who was born and reared in Hope, and he is to be given credit for it by the publishers hereafter.

Following an early termination of the services, a large percentage of the Clergy Dry; Docs and Bankers Wet

Literary Digest Poll Reveals Drift Among Pro- fessional Men

The clergy of the United States are the wettest professional groups in the country according to returns of the Literary Digest's special classified Prohibition Polls as published in this week's issue of the magazine.

The bankers of the nation rank next to the clergy in their dry sentiment and the physicians vote practically as wet as the lawyers according to the balloting in these supplementary referendums.

In the poll of the clergymen of the country 30 States are voting dry while 16 States register wet majorities and 2 more vote exactly even on the subject.

The clergy in six States vote more than 4 to 1 for continuance of the Prohibition Amendment and the dryest of these, North Carolina, votes more than 10 to 1 for dry.

Of the total of 43,608 ballots received in the clergy poll 23,924, or 54.86 per cent, vote for continuance and 19,684, or 45.14 per cent, vote for repeal of Prohibition.

The poll of the bankers of the country reveals a sentiment of nearly 2 to 1 wet although five States show an outright dry majority while the other 43 States and the District of Columbia vote for repeal. Four States in this group show a sentiment of more than 4 to 1 wet. The bankers of Nevada vote over 11 to 1 for repeal.

A total of 77,860 ballots were received from the bankers of which 26,604, or 34.17 per cent, show a sentiment in favor of continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment while 51,252, or 65.83 per cent, are in favor of repeal of Prohibition.

The vote of the nation's Physicians in their special poll shows they desire a repeal of Prohibition by a majority of over 3 to 1. No State in this group gives a majority in favor of the continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Kansas is the dryest State in the physician's poll with a percentage of 43.97 in favor of continuance while in the wet column Delaware votes 92.97 per cent for repeal.

The medical fraternity returns a total of 60,229 ballots which are divided 14,770, or 24.52 per cent, in favor of continuance and 45,459, or 75.48 per cent, in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Further immigration restrictions, a navy built up to treaty strength and a complete embargo on Russian goods were the main topics considered by the 41st Continental Congress of the Daughters of American Revolution meeting in Constitution Hall, Washington, D. Trader Denies Bear Raiding Exists Now

Veteran of Wall Street Is Questioned by Banking Committee

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A veteran Wall street trader, Matthew C. Brush testified to the Senate Banking Committee Friday, that under certain conditions could depress the stock market, but denied that there had been bear raiding in recent months.

Bush said that short sales could depress the market by creating a supply in excess of the demand.

Bear raiding does not exist now, Bush said because of the restrictions placed on short selling.

Questioned about his extensive short account he said, "I don't think my short account has any more effect on the condition of the country than a rabbit."

Lipsev Exonerated In Theft Attempt

Pine Bluff Man Freed at Prescott, But Sought Again for Car

L. H. Lipsey, former newspaper man and aviator, of Pine Bluff, was exonerated late Thursday of any connection with the attempted safe-breaking at the "M" System store in Prescott Wednesday night.

Sheriff E. H. Weaver of Nevada county released Lipsey after the investigation in Prescott Thursday afternoon.

Thursday night, however, Hope police were notified from Pine Bluff that Lipsey was wanted for delinquent payments on a motor car which he was said to have taken with him from Pine Bluff. The car, a 1931 Chevrolet deluxe coach was traced as far as Camden; but Lipsey came to Prescott and Hope and by train, and police said that the Pine Bluff owners had been unable to locate the machine.

Lipsev left here Thursday night, telling Hope newspaper men he was returning to Pine Bluff.

Law Lags Behind Medicine, Treating With Mental Ills

Dr. A. C. Kolb Addresses Rotarians on Types of Irresponsibility

HOW MEXICO DOES

Court Psychiatrist Takes Case After Jury Verdict, Before Sentence

The law has a long way to go in the United States to catch up with medicine in its approach to the problem of persons who are mentally unsound. Dr. A. C. Kolb, Hope psychiatrist and general practitioner, who made a fascinating vocational talk Friday at the Hope Rotary club luncheon in Hotel Barlow.

Dr. Kolb said that Mexico, far behind the United States in most fields of endeavor, is more advanced than we are in its treatment of criminal cases where the defendant is of unsound mind. The new Mexican court procedure is this: The jury establishes the guilt or innocence of the defendant and then, before sentence is pronounced by the trial judge, a psychiatrist who is a regular officer of the court, examines the prisoner to determine whether he is of normal mind. The psychiatrist's decision determines what kind of sentence the judge may impose on him, Dr. Kolb said.

The nominating committee's report on club officers for 1932-33 was brought in by Terrell Cornelius. The nominations, to be voted on at the next meeting, are:

New Club Nominees
President, L. Carter Johnson; vice-president, Jim Henry; secretary, Frank Ward; treasurer, Nick Jewell; directors, (two), Mr. Jewell and Alex. H. Washburn.

Ben Williams, Rotarian of Ashdown, and City Attorney U. A. Gentry of Hope, were guests at the luncheon.

The text of Dr. Kolb's address "Psychopathic Personalities With Criminal Tendencies," was as follows: "There are many individuals whose mental constitution and ways of reacting to their experiences characterize them as differing from those who are normal, but yet not insane. Their abnormalities lie largely in the quality and intensity of their emotional reactions and in the effects these have on their behavior. Between this group and the normal there are all degrees of transitions, but the pathologic symptoms always predominate over the normal."

The Abnormal Types
"There are several types of this group and Kraepelin of Germany, who has made a very comprehensive study of this group as a whole, has classified them as follows:

"1. The Excitable. These are individuals who have a strong emotional excitability. They are easily angered. Extremely sensitive toward their environment. The duration of the excitement is brief and usually over within a few hours. Often during the excitement, the consciousness is unclear. They later describe their mind

Highway Roster to Be Cut 80 Per Cent

Huge Reduction Is An- nounced Due to Re- funding Act

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—An 80 per cent reduction in personnel of the state highway department was announced Thursday affecting about 100 employees.

The announcement was made by Dwight H. Blackwood, chairman of the state highway commission. The drastic reduction was made necessary by enactment of the bond refunding bill by the recent special legislative session. The act cut down the department's appropriation from $250,000 a year to $100,000 or $23,231 a month.

Most of the employees who are to be cut off will continue to work until May 1, but services of a number have already been discontinued.

The reduction announced Wednesday brings to nearly 200 the number of employees who have been dismissed by the highway department within a year. Last year all district offices came in for sweeping reductions in employees, and a number of district offices were abolished and their duties transferred to others.

The bond refunding act, which became effective last week, appropriates only $8,233 a month to the highway department's operation.

While the same act appropriates $1,000,000 for road maintenance, officials said they did not believe any of this sum would be available soon, since the act appropriates nearly $7,000,000 for bond interest and retirement which must be met before the maintenance appropriation becomes effective.

Roosevelt in St. Paul Hits Back at Smith

Defending his "broad economic policy, presidential aspirant Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York reiterated the policies that have been attacked by former Governor Al Smith. Roosevelt's speech, delivered at the Jefferson Day dinner in St. Paul, Minn., was received with cheers by Democrats from Minnesota and neighboring state who filled the banquet hall and accorded their leader a mighty welcome. In the above picture Governor Roosevelt (center, with cane) and his wife are greeted by influential party leaders of the middle west. Next to Mrs. Roosevelt are Joseph Wolf, Democratic national committeeman from Minnesota, and Miss Frieda Bremer, also a Democratic leader. On the governor's right are Otto Bremer, St. Paul banker, and Mrs. Stanley Hodge of Minneapolis, national Democratic committeeman.

New York Representative Urges Bond Issue for Unemployed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Representative Fish, New York Republican, opponent of the full payment of the soldiers bonus, turned upon the House Ways and Means Committee Friday and charged it with lack of "nerve and leadership," for not bringing out legislation to meet the economic crisis.

He urged a billion dollar bond issue for a two year program to keep the people employed.

Governor Refuses To Pardon Mooney

Alleged Bomber Must Re- main in Prison in California

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(AP)—Governor James Rolph, Jr., Thursday unconditionally and with blunt finality declined to grant a pardon to Tom Mooney, ex-labor leader convicted of bombing the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade of June 22, 1916.

The governor was the fourth to refuse to liberate the man whose sympathizers throughout the world have long regarded as a martyr to the cause of labor.

As he read his brief statement, the silence of the packed room was broken only by the click of telegraph instruments which caught his words and flashed them to the four corners of the world.

The decision came after nearly five months of deliberations during which Governor Rolph had the advice and counsel of Matt I. Sullivan, former chief justice of the state supreme court.

Sullivan, Louis Byington, a supervisor, and Daniel J. O'Brien, head of the state department of penology, sat with the governor at the hearing last December. Then, after nearly three years of quiescence, Mooney's conviction again became a national issue through the championing of his cause by Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

In an adjoining room Mooney's aged mother in the care of her daughter, Anna, and a member of the Tom Mooney Moulder's defense committee, waited uncomprehendingly the reading of the decision that once again blasted her son's hopes for exoneration and freedom.

With a smile of resignation, Mooney himself received the verdict in the office of Warden James B. Holahan at San Quentin penitentiary where he has spent nearly 16 years.

It was apparent that he had built up little hopes but persons in his confidence did not expect that the door would be so completely closed to possible future consideration by the present governor.

Blunt as were the words Governor Rolph used in declaring his conviction that Mooney was guilty and had been fairly tried, even more outspoken was the verbiage of Sullivan's report on which Governor Rolph largely replied.

Britain's Tariff Wall Complete

20 Per Cent Duty on Vir- tually All Manufac- tures Ordered

LONDON.—(AP)—A total duty of 20 per cent will be imposed on nearly all manufactured goods imported into Great Britain after midnight April 25. This was made certain Thursday night by recommendations of the Import Duties Advisory Committee, which in effect decreed that a limited number of manufactured goods will bear a total duty of 15 per cent, and certain luxury articles 25 to 30 per cent.

The new duties will be: "For most manufactured goods an additional duty of 10 per cent, making 20 per cent in all. Disorder Starts in Yard of Freshman Students
Gathering

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(AP)—A riot of Harvard students, characterized by police as one of the worst demonstrations in recent years, was subdued early Friday after eight students and four Cambridge residents had been arrested and two officers injured.

Hundreds of students attempted to rescue two of the number taken into custody and bondfires were built in Harvard square.

Scores of students invaded the dormitories of Radcliffe College, a women's institution and stole a bell from one dining room.

The disorder started in the yard when a group of freshmen in search of a bell clapper, stolen recently from the memorial hall, shouted the Harvard war cry.

Police reserves rushed into the crowd, numbering 3,000 and dispersed them with tear gas.

As the huge crowd of students milled in Harvard square at midnight Mayor Richard M. Russell was reported on his way to the scene and gates of the Harvard yard were closed to prevent other students from joining the crowd.

Repulsed by police, they showered stones through two windows in the police station, then gradually dispersed. While the demonstration was at its height, there were reports of the Harvard yard were closed to prevent other students from joining the crowd.

Scales Asquitted On 'Perfect Alibi'

Dallas Clubman and Com- panion Cleared of Bank Robbery Charge

MEMPHIS.—(AP)—Herbert C. Scales, 37, Dallas social leader, Thursday cleared his name of a bank robbery charged with an alibi so unimpeachable that the state withdrew its case.

On recommendation of William Gerber, assistant prosecuting attorney, Judge Phil Wallace directed a verdict of acquittal for Scales and Ralph Arnold, young bootlegger-filling station operator, when court reconvened after the noon recess.

Mrs. Margaret Scales, of Houston, Tex., mother of the clubman, athlete and university man, said she had seen and talked with Scales at Dallas on May 4, 1931, the day he and Arnold were accused of participating in a $23,000 Main street bank holdup here.

So convincing was her testimony that Gerber, in recommending acquittal said:

"I am frank to say to your honor, I was especially impressed with the testimony of Scales' mother, and I am satisfied that she is trying to tell the truth."

Mrs. Scales said afterwards: "It's been an unfortunate affair, but I am very happy. I know Herbert was innocent."

Scales plans to leave Friday for Dallas by plane. He purchased a round trip ticket when he left Texas.

Scales intimated that political enemies at Dallas were responsible for his arrest. He styled himself a "crusader" against vice and said he had won the enmity of Dallas police.

A robbery charge is pending against him in Texas, which his attorney, Maury Hughes, said he has been trying to bring to trial for some time. He said there was "political conspiracy."

Scales introduced witnesses in support of his contention that he was in the lobby of a Dallas bank at the time of the robbery here, and Arnold's proof showed he paid for an automobile repair bill at Dallas on the day of the holdup.

Gerber admitted the proof showed that Scales "bears an excellent reputation in Dallas."

The Strange Case of Mr. Kreuger

NOW that more light has been shed on the tangled affairs of Ivar Kreuger it is beginning to be a little easier to understand why the rich "match king" killed himself.

Indeed, the suicide seems to be the one action in the whole tangled chain that looks logical. All the rest is bizarre, disordered, reasonless.

Why should one of the world's richest and most powerful men forge millions of dollars worth of Italian government securities? Why should he contribute heavily to monarchist movements in Spain, to Fascist movements in Germany? Why should he get things into such a mix-up that police investigation is looked for in such widely-separated places as New York, Berlin, Paris, Amsterdam and Geneva?

Is there, perhaps, something about the pursuit of great wealth and great commercial power that betrays a man and compels him to delude himself when the going gets difficult?

Climbing to the top in the world of finance is no job for the oversqueamish. To reach the position that Ivar Kreuger reached one must have a boundless confidence in one's self, coupled with a readiness to reach out for whatever it is that one happens to want without worrying too greatly over the ethical niceties.

Do that long enough, and eventually you reach the point at which your own will and your own desires are your only law. Then, if bad luck comes, the stage is all set for a frantic crash like that of Kreuger's.

Swedish investigators have asserted that forged Italian bonds with a face value of approximately $100,000,000 were traced to the match king's door. Imagine the utter impossibility of finally evading detection in a swindle of that size, and you have the measure of this man's delusion.

The determined pursuit of money, beyond the point at which one has enough to buy the freedom and leisure which money can provide, is an ignoble game. A debacle like that of Kreuger's is a sample of its final significance.

Truth About the Philippines

WHEN the question of independence for the Philippines comes up, there is one point on which it is important that the people of the United States refrain from deluding themselves. That is the level of culture reached by the people of the islands.

Many Americans conceive of all Filipinos as semi-savage people who indulge in head-hunting, devil-worship and cannibalism in practically all parts of the archipelago except the larger cities. There could be no more mistaken notion than that.

As a matter of fact, there has been a rich culture in the Philippines for more than 300 years. The Filipinos are far more literate and well-informed than the people of the Balkans, for example; their standard indeed runs higher than that in certain states of the American union. Americans who look on all Filipinos as jungle people tragically unready for self-government are simply fooling themselves.

Outlawing Criminals

MANY years ago there was a provision under English law whereby a notorious criminal could be "outlawed," that is, by executive proclamation he could be put outside the protection of the law, and any citizen might kill him without incurring any penalty. Oddly enough, several American states have that provision on their statute books; North Carolina, for instance, has such a law, a relic of the dark ages of 1866.

The interesting point about all this is that it has recently been proposed that statutes of this kind be revived today to permit a harrassed public to deal effectively with racketeers, kidnapers, gangsters and the like.

There is no question but that the ordinary methods of handling these thugs have utterly failed. Would this old English law be worth a trial? It would be a dangerous weapon to use, certainly, open to many abuses. But the plan is worth a little discussion.

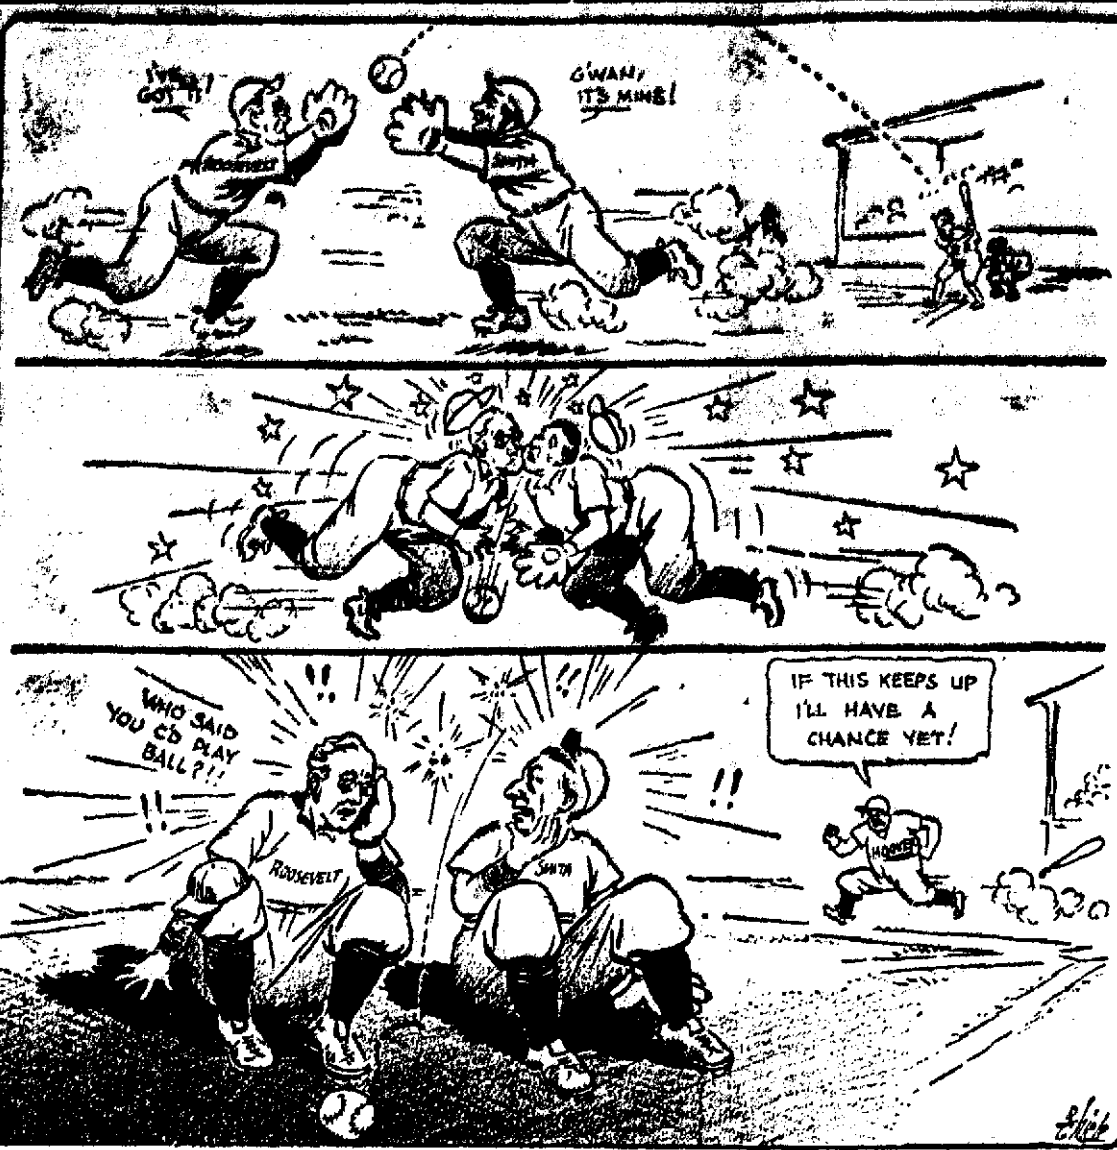

Lindy—A Legend

THAT was an interesting little story from Minneapolis the other day, telling how Colonel Lindbergh has replaced such a famous character as Jack of the beanstalk legend in the hearts of modern children.

University of Minnesota scientists, as you may remember, made the test. Out of 100 kindergarten children, they found that 90 knew who Lindbergh was and what he had done—and only 58 knew about the famous Jack.

There probably is some sort of moral behind all of this, but what it may be is hard to discover. It certainly does testify, though, to the completeness with which the famous aviator has taken possession of the hearts of American youth. The man has already become a legend; and the legend is apt to last for a great many years.

Would Rival Monte Carlo at British Shore Towns

LONDON.—(AP)—Agitation for gambling casinos at British south coast resorts has grown apace this winter with increasing effort to keep tourists and their money in Britain.

Dr. W. Harris, nerve specialist, gave the movement impetus with suggestion that halls where "holiday makers can have a flutter" would be a good thing for the British people and help reduce taxation of the coast towns.

The authorities of several cities are in favor of casinos, to enable English resorts to compete with Deauville and Monte Carlo.

The Senate investigation of the stock exchange was at least a novelty. Its seldom that the employees investigate the bosses.

Johnston of Johnson Co., Is Probable Candidate for Governor

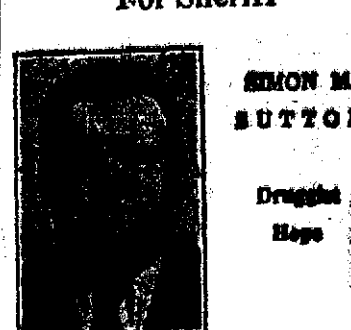

The deadline for filing party pledges as candidates for state office will come May 9 and uncertainty regarding who will enter the various races will cease. Under the rules of the State Democratic Central Committee, candidates for state offices must file their party loyalty pledges at least 30 days ahead of the primary. Candidates for district offices will have until June 9, in which to make formal announcement while candidates for county and township offices may file as late as July 9.

Representative Dan Johnson, of Johnson county, the "Johnson of Johnson," so frequently heard from in legislative halls during the past two years, is considering becoming a candidate for governor, due to pressure brought to bear upon him by friends throughout the state. Judge William F. Kirby, associate justice of the supreme court and candidate for United States Senator, $81. The robbers escaped.

Talk of Lee Cazor's candidacy for lieutenant-governor is being heard frequently. Some time ago Mr. Cazor, lieutenant-governor in 1928 and 1930, announced that he would be a candidate for the office again this year. During recent weeks, little had been said regarding his plans. Friends of this week, however, that there was doubt about the former lieutenant-governor seeking election in August primary.

GREENEVILLE, Ind.—William Y. brough, local produce man, was recently held up and robbed of $1,000. When first accused, Yarbrough stated to run. One of the hold-up men caught him by the foot and off came his shoe and sock. In the sock was $1,000. The robbers escaped.

Not yesterday, tomorrow, but today
Holds all of good for all. The impartial sun
Shines not alone for the more beau-

But reaches where the humblest
blade of grass
Works its way up through leaves last autumn shed,
And strengthens it with warm life-
giving glow.
And so does Love lend its unwearied
power
That, with uplifted eyes, the least may

Unhurt, unscathed, through earth's

Guided in darkness and in hunger

Seeing, through faith, God's perfect work as done.
Men's part is to rejoice, and gladly

That here and now, for you, for all,
Unnumbered blessings from Love's

Sarah Ann James Green

This article, a sketch of the life of Sarah Ann James Green, was read by great-granddaughter, Mrs. William B. Hoot, at the grave of Mrs.
Green, in a Washington cemetery, on the occasion of the session of the state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, on April 6.
Sarah Ann James Green, "a lineal descendant of John Knox, the Reformer, and his wife, Lady Margaret Stuart," was born in Williamsburg District, South Carolina in 1814, and died in Hope, Arkansas in 1892.
Mrs. Green came from the sturdy stock of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians who settled in South Carolina more than two centuries ago. She was the youngest and last surviving child of Captain John James, and the granddaughter of Major John James, "both distinguished officers under General Francis Marion in the American Revolution."

Dear Children: Last week the Oglesby school won our picture prize.
Which school will win it this time?
Boys and girls I can hardly wait to tell you that Saturday we have a splendid program arranged for you.
In addition to the vaudeville, games, etc., that we will have there is to be two pictures that every boy and girl will enjoy because they contain thrills and action from start to finish. The first picture will be "The Local Bad Man" starring Hoot Gibson and Sally Blane. It is a western story written by that famous author Petr B. Kyne.
The other picture is a story about airplanes and fighting in the air. The name of it is "The Broken Wing" starring Lupe Velez and Leo Carrillo.
In addition to these pictures there is to be a cartoon; Don't forget we want you to be at the club Saturday and help your school win the prize.

Got His Wish

LOS ANGELES.—Wanting to commit suicide, Walter Bitters rented a room and turned on the gas jet. Tired of waiting for the gas to overcome him, he lit a cigaret. A terrific blast followed which hurled him through the wall and on to the roof of an adjoining building. He died two hours later.

England is bragging that it has stores without keepers. Over on this side we have stores without keepers, customers or tenants. The English can't get ahead of us!

He raised a company of volunteers, and this, with some others, formed the original brigade which under Francis Marion immortalized itself in the struggle for American liberty.
He left a name around which tradition has gathered many stories illustrative of mental vigor, personal intrepidity, and patriotic ardor; and that his son Captain John James, inherited in no small measure, the same traits of character and was also distinguished for the conspicuous part he bore in achieving the liberty of his country. He had seven sons and daughters; and, as the teacher may be made illustrious by his pupils, so may the father be honored by the character and virtues of his children.

His youngest child, Sarah Ann James, was a woman of strong character and positive convictions, and her piety was characterized by simplicity, sincerity, and earnestness. Consecrat-ing herself to the service of Christ in early youth, duty was the guiding star of her life, and religion her constant inspiration.

In 1834 she married Captain James Green of Georgetown, S. C., a man of high character and eminent piety whose influence was felt both in church and state.

After residing in Darlington district,
S. C., for some years Captain and Mrs.
Green removed to Whitefield county, Georgia. They were the parents of nine children, eight of whom lived to maturity.

While their six sons served in the Confederate Army, Captain and Mrs.
Green did volunteer hospital service in Georgia and Mississippi from '61 to '65. Although their joint hospital work was a labor of love, nevertheless, the constant anxiety of mind and the tax upon her physical strength and sympathy finally undermined her superb constitution and she never fully regained her strength, although she lived to be 76 years old.

In 1865, at the close of the war between the states, Captain and Mrs.
Green, broken in health, their home and fortune in ruins, removed to Hempstead county, Arkansas, near Washington. Captain Green died in 1875 and 16 years later his faithful companion was laid to rest by his side and today the second and third generation like her children, who have gone on before, "Arise and call her

Legion Honors to Maj. Bodenhamer

Post Commander Wins
First Place in Membership Drive

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—O. L. Bodenhamer, of El Dorado, Ark., past national commander of the American Legion, was proclaimed the winner of highest honors in the recent Legion membership race, the announcement being made in a coast-to-coast N. B. C. radio program received by 10,400 Legion posts and their friends at special meetings held for the event.

The former Legion chief was given nearly twice as many honor points by the ex-service men of America as the next highest, the contest comprising one week for each past administration in which all membership cards and dues were credited in honor of the national commander of that particular administration.

The totals just compiled at National Headquarters are as follows:
Bodenhamer, 61,085; O'Neal, 33,069; McNutt, 24,213; Spafford, 21,580; Savage, 20,525; McQuigg, 28,390; Drain, 16,941; Quinn, 24,784; Owsley, 16,213;
MacNider, 16,349; Galbraith-Emery, 9,478; D'Oiler, 13,999; Lindsley, 14,701.

The national broadcast of one hour was part of a "Victory Membership Celebration." The 10,400 local post programs were co-ordinated with the national broadcast.

National stars, the national heads of the Legion, Auxiliary and Folly and Eight took part. The champion Legion band of Milwaukee furnished music.

Regarding the victory, Mr. Boden-hamer, in a message sent to National Headquarters, said:
"No man should refuse or decline to assume his part of the responsibility of service to the Legion during these days of economic distress. I am particularly happy to announce that the post, county, district and department commanders and their co-workers, who served under me, did assume and discharge the duties assigned to them as past officers of the Legion. For myself and for the Legion, I thank them for their service. For myself and the Bodenhamer organization, I express appreciation to the present officers of the Legion, from post to National Headquarters, for their cooperation. If we have served effectively, then we are happy and appreciative of the opportunity of service."

"An opportunity to serve the American Legion is an opportunity to contribute directly to the security and welfare of our own United States, because the Legion is a national influence for the well being of our country.
The Legion's power is determined by its membership and its program. It is through its strength in membership that the Legion is able to successfully perform its unselfish service to the disabled, to the widows and orphans, to our communities, and to our state and nation.

"A greater Legion means a better America, immediately and throughout the years. It means that those boys who gave up their health and happiness for the sake of our country, will continue to receive the proper hospitality which is so richly their due.
It means a finer and universal in our public schools will be given

"Why I Was One of the 67"

A Statement by I. L. Pilkinton, Hempstead County Representative in the Legislature, Relative to His Stand in the Late Adjourned
Session of the General Assembly

The following statement was made to the Hemp-stead county press Thursday night by I. L. Pilkinton, one of the county's two representatives in the legislature:

"As one of the members of the House of Representatives, called by Governor Farnell, a 'bunch of wild braying jackasses,' I feel that I ought to make this statement to the people of Hempstead county.

"About 4 p. m., Tuesday, April 12, the Senate passed a resolution to adjourn sine die at 5 p. m. and sent it to the House to be concurred in by that body. At the time the House had before it resolution No. 12, providing that the special session be extended 15 days for retrenchment and economy in state and county affairs. This was passed by a vote of 82 to 7, and was ordered to be sent to the Senate at once. The House postponed consideration of the Senate resolution to adjourn sine die, and recessed until 10 a. m. the following morning.

"The Senate failed to pass the House resolution by a vote of 12 to 17 and recessed until 10 a. m., the same time the House was to meet.

"For various reasons the governor and the heads of other state departments didn't want the legislature to remain in session any longer.

"So in the dark hours of the night the speaker of the House and the president of the Senate, who is Lieutenant-Governor Wilson, was called to the governor's home and certified that the House and Senate disagreed as to the time of adjournment; which was not a fact.

"Still in the hours of the night, our governor, lieutenant-governor, speaker of the House and the secretary of state went to the state house where the governor issued his proclamation dissolving the session, without giving either house an opportunity to be heard, and before the House had been notified that the Senate had failed to concur in the resolution.

"At 10 a. m. Wednesday morning the House met without a speaker, 7 answering to roll-call. By unanimous vote they declared the office of speaker vacant and selected one of their members as speaker. This member was sworn in as speaker by a member of the Supreme Court. The House, having no official notice of being dissolved, or that the Senate failed to concur in House resolution No. 12, resumed work with the belief that they were still legally in session. They also believed that the 94 voting to extend the session without pay constituted a majority of both houses; but the Supreme Court ruled that it took a two-thirds vote of each house, so in the opinion of the court the legislature was dissolved by proclamation.

"I believe that the members should have had further opportunity to decide for themselves whether they could agree on an extended session without pay, or adjourn as the law provides.

"To the citizens of Hempstead county, as a fair-minded people, I ask you to study the issue and say which, in your opinion, the Governor, or the 'braying wild jackasses,' have made the honest effort to serve the people of our state, by trying to give relief to the thousands of home owners and taxpayers of Arkansas who are losing their homes and lands because of high taxes and extravagant use of public funds."

Representative Hempstead County.

hills. On the other hand is the suffering, the deprivations and the heart-aches of our millions of good citizens, through no fault of their own, struggling to maintain their belief in the justice and security of their country.
A real emergency exists. It calls once again for the united manpower and brain power of true Americans, as represented by those who once stood the test of unselfish patriotism.
"There is a clear-cut call for hard headed, clear thinking, straight shooting, brave hearted men and women.
The American Legion has answered that call, and its devotion has been tested and found true blue.

"The members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary will carry on with that same spirit of high devotion and of patriotic service which characterized their efforts in the war. Even in spite of discouragement, criticism and temporary setbacks, they will press forward to the goal of clean government, of good citizenship, of a prosperous and contented people, and of service to our disabled, to the widows and orphans, and to our country alike. To have served as a leader of such unselfish men and women, is an honor for which I am sincerely appreciative, and which can't be compensated by the continued service throughout the years."

A Tune From the Past

It was a tune that isn't recorded in written music. And as white-bearded Captain Spicer played it, the melody seemed to enthrall his fair young listeners at Richmond, Va. He's one of the folk musicians of old Virginia who may take part soon in a program of folk music of a former day. The Captain was playing "The Hog-Eyed Man" when the camera man snapped this picture.

Envoy of Beauty

That Lespedeza is a safe and paying crop in eastern Arkansas is beyond a question of doubt, states J. E. McKell, district agent, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. There are a number of improved varieties that are highly recommended above the commonly known "common" Lespedeza. These varieties include Korean, Kobe, Tennessee 76, and perhaps others about which little is known.

While the best variety for any given section may yet have to be determined, the Korean has in many cases proven satisfactory to the growers, both from a hay crop and for producing seed.

In the spring of 1931, Jim Jenkins of Crittenden county seeded 25 acres of rather a poor type of sandy soil to Korean Lespedeza. The planting was somewhat late and was followed by the early summer drought. The growth and showing was extremely poor until about August 15.

The crop was allowed to fully mature, then cut with a mowing machine without a pan, allowed to cure, and shocked and threshed. The hay yield after threshing was 38 tons or more than 1 1/2 tons per acre, and an average of 750 pounds of seed.

At 10 cents per pound for seed, the current price for this season, the profit was far superior to most crops and a satisfactory feed crop secured in addition to this income, points out Mr. McKell.

Brown, "I've had a worrying time with the insurance people. They ask such awkward questions. They even wanted to know the state of my mind."

Farmers Urged to Raise Food, Not Cotton Crop

Still, WATER, Okla.—(P)—Farmers in Oklahoma's cotton belt have been urged by the Oklahoma A. & M. college extension division to raise food for themselves and feed for livestock this year rather than another cotton crop.

With the largest cotton carryover in the history of the state, farmers will be unable to depend on this crop alone for a livelihood, a pamphlet being distributed warned.

When I graduated from the country school, our class had a rather high sounding motto that had something to do with "Service" and "Obedience." Since we had gotten out in the world it seems that the motto should have been "Every man for himself."

The man who says the right thing at the right time is rare. But not half so rare as the man who says nothing at the right time.

League Deputies View Wreckage at Woosung Fort

Retrieved from its base, this old cannon signifies the valiant stand made by Chinese defenders of the Woosung forts in an attempt to keep the Japanese from invading Shanghai by land. A special committee of the League of Nations, headed by the Earl of Lytton (indicated by arrow), now is engaged in surveying the damage and fixing the blame in the Sino-Japanese conflict during a tour of the battle area. Under a rain of shells from Japanese battleships, the Chinese held out at Woosung until their armament was demolished.

Loin Cloths for Beaches Predicted by Magistrate

MELBOURNE, Australia.—(P)—"The day is coming when Australians will regard a loin cloth as sufficient covering and when young men will be proud to display fine, manly sun-tanned figures," declares Police Magistrate Stafford.

The magistrate was commenting upon the activities of the Beach Purity league, which is endeavoring to enforce more decorous behavior on the bathing beaches.

Stafford deprecates the law which compels him to fine young men for rolling down their bathing costumes to the waist, and declared himself in favor of less clothing to the dismay of those who are endeavoring to enforce the antiquated neck-to-knee swimming suit of the last generation.

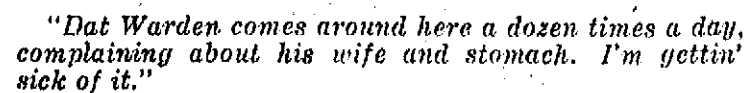

Foul Theft

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—Fire Captain Walter Becker bought a hen and proceeded to fatten it with choice foods. To play a prank on him, Frank Feldman and H. K. Rockledge stole the fowl and kept it for three days. Captain Becker swore he'd punish the thieves—until the two jokers returned the hen. Then he invited them to a chicken dinner.

Bankhead Decision Probable

Heflin's Case to Be Presented to Senate Friday by Hastings

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A decision by the Senate is probable Monday or Tuesday in the long battle of former Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama to succeed his successor, John H. Bankhead.

For two hours Thursday, Senator Bankhead, Democrat, New Mexico, argued that Bankhead is entitled to the seat.

Chairman Hastings, Republican, Delaware, of the Elections Subcommittee, that voted three to two against recognizing Bankhead, will present views of the opposition.

Leaders expect a vote early next week on the pending resolution of Bankhead and Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, declaring Bankhead entitled to his seat. The whole Elections Committee voted nine to eight to recognize Bankhead.

Off the floor, several expressed the opinion that Bankhead would be the victor.

Prison Terms For Bono Bank Bandits

Cecil and Barney Cook and Ode Randolph Get Three Years Each

JONESBORO—Ode Randolph and Cecil Cook, confessed robbers of the Peoples bank at Bono, were sentenced to three years each by Circuit Judge Neil Kilgough Thursday. Barney Cook, arrested after he had pleaded not guilty, appeared before the court with a petition for clemency but the petition was overruled and his three-year sentence allowed to stand.

Bob Young and John Simpson, negroes, were sentenced to two years each on burglary charges. George Lewis and John Warden, negroes, were sentenced to two years each on charges of swindling.

Norman Parrish, charged with being an accomplice in the robbery of the Farmers Mill and Gin Company, was convicted and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. A sentence of the same length was given Gaylon Young, alleged ringleader in the robbery, after a trial earlier in the week. Earl Lane, another alleged accomplice, is free under bond and will be tried at the next term of court.

The case of Ed Burton, charged with building the tabernacle of Evangelist Joe Jeffers without a permit, in violation of a city ordinance, was continued.

Kept Alive by Water in Veins

Three quarts of water daily are injected into the veins of Mrs. Ludmilla F. Sintsin, 45, to keep her alive. Mrs. Sintsin, wife of Dr. Dimitri F. Sintsin, Russian scientist, tried to kill herself in a tourist camp near El Paso, Tex., by pouring gasoline over her head and igniting it. The water is injected into her veins because the severe burns reduced the water content in her blood.

Amours Blamed In Slaying of Couple

Three Women Questioned in Effort to Establish Revenge Motive

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The amours of Edward Brinker, Jr., were believed by police Thursday night to hold the secret of why the sign salesman and his stenographer companion were beaten to death in a vacant field on Long Island.

Brinker's divorced wife, the woman who called herself his second wife and a New York chorus girl were questioned in an effort to establish a possible revenge motive. Sisters and brothers of Brinker's slain companion, Miss Rose Weik, also were grilled.

The most acceptable clue was a gold "I Love You" ring which had been torn off Brinker's finger. Although the ring was set with a diamond, a robbery theory was discarded because of the money still in the salesman's pockets when the bodies were found early Wednesday morning.

The ring was given to Brinker by Mrs. Josephine Tillison, black-eyed matron who said she was his second wife. Detectives said they were not married although they lived together. Her diary, found in her home, contained such entries as "Eddie went out to see the landlord" and "Eddie had to see a client," all followed by question marks.

congregation adjourned to the First Methodist church to hear a lecture by Dr. Caroline Hodger, under the auspices of the local P. T. A. Council.

Friday's session of the presbytery was opened by the giving of the devotional, "A Close Vine," by Mrs. David Shepperson, of El Dorado.

"Harvest Time in the Vineyard," a series of reports, given under the direction of Mesdames McCallum, McGill and Cantley, portrayed the advancement made during the past year. Mrs. Daltor Craven, St. Louis, Mo., conducted a study of Auxiliary methods and Mrs. Ward Dabney again delighted her audience with a solo, Miss Cornelia Single, student secretary of Louisville, Ky., stressed the need of closer co-operation and enlarged activities in Christian education and ministerial relief. Miss Miriam Carlton, of Hope, gave a reading, "A Prayer for a Very New Angel," which preceded memorial services for "The Severed Branches," by Mrs. W. H. Green of Lewisville, Ark.

For many years Southern Presbyterians have been stressing Home Mission work among negroes, Mexicans and Italians, and Ella Yeager, of this city, gave a report on the 1931 Conference for Colored Women.

The mid-day luncheon was followed by a program of unusual interest, with Miss Margaret Mitchell, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. R. N. Benson, of El Dorado, featured speakers.

Following the reports of special committees, the newly elected officers were installed. They are: Vice-president, Mrs. David McMillan, Arkadelphia; Recording Secretary, Mrs. S. O. Logan, Prescott; Treasurer, Mrs. J. T. Burlingame, Ashdown; Historian, Mrs. R. L. Searcy, Sr., Lewisville; Secretary, Assembly, Home Missions, Mrs. Washington Berry, Hope; Secretary, Religious Education, Mrs. R. B. LAW LAGS BEHIND as having been confused. They felt as if they had been in a dream. It is this type who usually gets into conflict with the laws. Sex delinquencies are frequent. They are not uncommonly charged with criminal thefts, disturbing the peace, or of making physical assaults and sometimes murder.

"2. The Inadequate Personality. This group includes those psychopaths who are of unstable character and weak in volitional self control.

"They are superficial, self-centered. Lack of will power, forceful ways, inability to stand on own resources, they change plans frequently, often involved in sexual difficulties, and inability to resist attractions often leads to their becoming involved in debt. Their most frequent crimes are stealing and deception, begging or prostitution. Suicide is frequent.

"3. The Impulsive Personality. The characteristic of this type is the impulsive quality of their actions. Decisions are made by the driving force of feeling rather than by deliberations. Their actions are uncontrolled by reason or plan.

"There are three special types in this group: (1) spendthrifts, (2) wanderers or tramps, (3) dipsomaniacs.

The spendthrifts are characterized by their tendency toward immoderate spending. This leads to acquiring debts and social complications.

The wanderer type "The wanderer include individuals who from early childhood have an overpowering desire to wander away. On return, they are often remorseful, but when the impulse comes again they are unable to resist. This trait is most frequently observed among the youthful.

"The dipsomaniac includes those who have an impulsive tendency to alcoholism. The attack usually develops out of a depressed mood. They usually show other psychopathic traits as unsteadiness, lack of dependability, and defective judgment.

"4. The Eccentric Individual. This group includes individuals who show striking oddities of thought and behavior that are not the result of the effects of a psychosis. Their judgments are one-sided. Their conduct is without aim and not always intelligent. They are unstable and incapable of sticking to any line of work. They rarely present problems of a criminal character.

"5. Pathological Liars and Swindlers. The special symptomatology of this group are, extraordinary imagination of expansive quality. They tell of great adventure and experiences of which they are the central figure. In addition to this they receive and swindle, the most common form is running up accounts without any ability to pay. They not infrequently follow a particular class of swindling. Their lying and deception are usually done to accomplish some personal wish or purpose.

The Anti-Social Type "6. The Antisocial Personality. In this group are those who have psychopathic traits and tendencies that make it difficult for them to conform to the customs of the social organization in which they live. They lack deep emotional responsiveness. They are uninfluenced by the joy or grief of their neighborhood. They lack all impulse toward working for the common good. They do not like work. They lie not only to get out of difficulties, but to harm others. They lack

New "Summer-ize" Service Is Developed by Magnolia

Motor car owners, this year more than ever before, are given more thought to safeguarding their cars against the dangers of hot weather driving than has been the case for several years, E. P. Angus, vice president and sales manager, said in announcing a new preventive maintenance service which the Magnolia Petroleum Company is introducing in response to popular demand throughout the Southwest.

"Just as merchants change their stocks and housewives clean and rearrange their homes with the change in the seasons, motor vehicle owners are learning the necessity of preparing their cars for hot weather driving," Mr. Angus said. "With the approach of summer certain simple precautions are necessary to put an automobile or truck in condition for safe and economical summer driving. Lubricants which were suitable for winter operation cannot be expected to provide adequate protection under hot weather conditions. The thinner, quick-flowing winter lubricants must be changed to heavier grades capable of resisting the high temperatures generated under summer heat and sympathy and even in their childhood years show unusual cruelty. Many of the children, who are truants from school and home, will later develop personalities of the antisocial type. Their behavior commonly brings them into conflict with the laws. The most frequent crime committed by this group is theft. Many are guilty of forgery and deception. Crimes against the person is frequent. Their attitude toward legal punishment varies. Some are sullen. Others assume attitude of martyrs. Their conviction seems to aggravate their antisocial bitterness. Efforts at reformation are rarely successful. They are easily drawn into criminal life and become professionals or specialists in crime.

"7. The Quarrelsome Personality. This class includes those persons whose personal differences and situations tend to make them irritable and quarrelsome and who, develop a permanent antagonism toward their environment. The most trivial incidents provoke bitter quarrels. They have an increased emotional excitability that easily leads to their becoming excited over trifles and quarrelsome in which they believe they detect injustice. They resemble the querulous paranoiac. However, they never develop delusions. Their attitude easily brings them into social conflicts some of which are of criminal quality.

cial relations of the psychopathic personality are such as to readily bring about conflicts with the law and thus present questions of mental responsibility that are most difficult to decide. As a whole, they contribute largely to the criminal and socially inadequate classes. The question of capacity for legal responsibility of members of this large class is one that is not measurable by ordinary tests laid down by the laws. Judged by the standards of ability to reason as to the nature and consequences of their actions they have the qualifications for responsibility. But the psychopathic individual may have psychotic episodes, usually transitory, that definitely include capacity for responsibility. Many of their crimes are committed during transitory disturbances of consciousness and hence must be judged differently from those occurring at other times. In other instances, the capacity to reason and to judge as to their actions is disordered by the intensity of their emotions. Their difficulties lie in the field of the emotions and in the influence of these upon their attitude and behavior. Their conflicts with the law are usually the result of impulses growing out of the intensity or lack of intensity of their emotions and lack of inhibitory powers. Their impulses are abnormal. The question of legal responsibility often involves the question of the irresistible impulse. The law recognizes this as relieving responsibility, but it is a most difficult matter to decide and must be passed upon in each individual case. There is no satisfactory way of determining what impulses are irresistible and what not.

"The whole question resolves itself into the question of disordered emotions and abnormal impulses."

When aroused human emotions play an important part in a vital event, the excitement surrounding it is an interesting angle of news. This association's editors and reporters are experts in distinguishing between the material and immaterial, rumors and realities, biased propaganda and substantiated truths. Their stories present every significant angle in its proper light.
